Paving the way for others – female and male – to achieve growth through our teams strengthens the ability of the organization to reflect the diversity among us. As we make decisions from our highest levels of influence, as board members, community, partnerships and engagement for a rich culture.

The Truth About Women and the Corporate Boards (Infographic)

Diversity in leadership roles is a key component to a successful and innovative organization. With women making up only 25% of the C-suite, business leaders are working to improve diversity metrics. The presence of women is associated with higher levels of innovation and increased financial performance, according to a study from McKinsey.

Women’s Growth In Diversity More Writings From The Stone Center

Women’s Growth In Diversity: More Writings From The Stone Center is the sequel to Women’s Growth In Connection: Writings from the Stone Center. This sequel continues in the same vein of the first book, where the focus is on the diversity of women’s experience.

A century of change: the U.S. labor force, 1950-2050

With slower growth, aging, and increasing diversity, the profile of the U.S. labor force is undergoing a gradual, but important, change. Labor force participation of women underwent rapid growth, 76 percent of the labor force growth was the result of women.

More Evidence That Company Diversity Leads To Better Profits

In the firm’s previous analysis, companies in the top 25 th percentile for gender diversity on their executive teams were 15% more likely to experience above-average profits. The latest data shows...